Your next event could be held in the stately elegance of one of Salem's most historic houses...

The Salem Museum, located in the 1845 Williams-Brown House with a spectacular 2010 addition, is now available for private rentals. Events, receptions, reunions, meetings, or celebrations of any variety can be staged in one of the most storied buildings in the Roanoke Valley. Complete with meeting rooms, a catering kitchen, handicapped accessibility, plenty of parking, and a charming "green roof" terrace overlooking the scenic Longwood Park, the Salem Museum is an ideal place for your next gathering. Whether you're planning your wedding or lunch with business clients, the charm and sophistication of the Salem Museum will make it a day to remember. Best of all, your rental supports one of the most active non-profit historic and preservation groups in the state!

Available Spaces:

The Salem Museum offers a variety of rental spaces to meet the needs of any client. Our main meeting space, the Ritter Community Room, is over 950 square feet and opens out onto our magnificent Green Roof terrace overlooking Longwood Park. Elsewhere, the 500-square-foot Middleton Gallery in the original house is full of character and charm; just perfect for the smaller gathering. Our larger Main Gallery on the first floor is nearly 1200 square feet and can be set up for small lectures or more informal events. (Please note that availability and use of the galleries is dependent upon the museum's exhibition schedule). Or renters may opt to reserve the entire museum for after hours events. Whether you're looking forward to a once-in-a-lifetime celebration or arranging a routine club meeting, call the Salem Museum today and let us help you plan an event that you will not soon forget!
